Nature Workshops

Workshops are free of charge

In a collaborative effort between Stanley Park, the Pioneer Valley Mycological Society and the Greater Westfield Community, 4 Nature Workshops will be conducted in the 229-acre Wildlife Sanctuary at Stanley Park this season. Janice Zepko, Seth Kellogg, Dianna Smith and John Hutchison will lead this year's workshops. We hope you take advantage of these opportunities to enjoy nature's beauty.

Janice Zepko has a master's degree in Wildlife and Fisheries Conservation from the University of Massachusetts. She is very active in the Allen Bird Club of Springfield, serving as Field Trip and Publications Chair since 1995, participating in a variety of annual censuses that monitor bird migration, and breeding populations.

Seth Kellogg has a Ph.D. in English from the University of Massachusetts. He writes the bird column for the Springfield Sunday Republican and is the compiler of all bird sighting records for Western Mass. He was president of the Allen Bird Club of Springfield, and continues to be active with the Club, leading numerous field trips, and serving as Field Trip and Publications Chair for several decades. He is an avid hawk watcher and was a long time Editor of the "Northeast Hawk Watch" migration report.

Dianna Smith is a founding member of the Pioneer Valley Mycological Society. She leads guided mushroom walks and offers educational programs on various topics in mycology for the PVMA and other mycology clubs, as well as universities, public schools, state parks, garden clubs, and environmental centers.

John Hutchison is a wildlife biologist. John has 60 years of bird watching experience and trip leading. He has served as president of Allen Bird Club of Springfield, MA. Currently he is the senior trip leader of Tropical Audubon Society of Miami, FL.

The walks and workshops will meet at the main entrance sign to the Frank Stanley Beveridge Memorial Wildlife Sanctuary located across from the recreation field and will cancel if there is heavy rain. Wear hiking attire, sturdy boots/shoes, bring water, your field guides, binoculars and camera if you wish.

May 6 "Enjoying the Birds of Spring" with Janice Zepko 7:30 a.m. – 9:30 a.m.

This workshop will focus on finding and identifying birds by sight and sound. We will learn how arriving birds seek out certain habitats in which to nest and tropical migrants feed and sing as they prepare to continue farther north. We will encounter many species, including Rose-breasted Grosbeak, Baltimore Oriole, and several species of warbler.

May 13 "Nesting Birds and Tropical Migrants" with Seth Kellogg 7:30 a.m. – 9:30 a.m.

Join the group for a relaxing walk on Mother's Day. We will pass through a variety of habitats in the sanctuary during the height of spring migration, stopping to enjoy both resident songbirds and tropical migrants as they feed and sing. We will encounter as many as 50 species, including thrushes, vireos, and warblers.

July 15 "The Mysterious World of Fungi" with Dianna Smith and the Pioneer Valley Mycological Society 1:00 p.m. – 3:00 p.m.

Fungi are all around you, but often you do not even realize it. They play many important ecological roles, including decay of organic material and nutrient recycling and exchange. Come and learn about different groups of fungi and the fundamentals of identifying them by their fruiting bodies, the mushrooms. Part of the fun of looking for wild mushrooms is that you never know what may be popping up! We will walk along some of the park's trails to see what we can discover.

September 9 "Birding During Fall Migration" with John Hutchison 7:30 a.m. – 9:30 a.m.

In fall, songbirds pause in their travels each day to eat and build up their strength in preparation for another long night flight south when the weather is good. They can be very numerous one day and scarce the next day, but there are always a few that can be coaxed out of hiding. Our biggest challenge will be identifying warblers in their obscure fall plumages. We will work on the skills of coaxing and identifying in this morning workshop.
